ALLEN B. SIMMONS, JR.

Allen,
Be good in the future &
watch those fast Baracudas!
Take care of those "Monsters" and be aware of ugly logs. Watch those mooses in the logs that head loose in the future hills. Take care of that camp in
I would say be good but those are then bridge with care.
I would say be good but those are then bridge with care.

Our Dedication

In recognition of your sincere interest in your students, for your conscientious devotion to the art department, for your willingness to help in all phases of the school academic and activities program,
for your ability to understand the problems of
teen-agers and for your dedication
to the teaching profession, we
the members of the staff dedicate
to you,

ADMINISTRATION

The Augusta County School Board Administration

Superintendent of Augusta County Schools

MR. HUGH K. CASSELL

To serve as superintendent of five of the most rapidly growing high schools in the state and a large elementary school enrollment requires that a man be of superior intelligence, high academic achievement and wide experience. We as students of Wilson Memorial High School are delighted that we have such a man in Mr. Hugh K. Cassell, our present Augusta County School Superintendent.

Mr. Cassell has been in public education for many years—serving as classroom teacher, principal, supervisor of instruction and now in the capacity as Superintendent of Augusta County schools since 1947.

We will always regard you, Mr. Cassell, not only as a highly competent educator but also as a true friend who always has time and words to share with students. His leadership is evidenced in all his activities and in the progress of the Augusta County schools.

Contributed by John McCracken

Director of Instruction

MR. S. GORDON STEWART

Mr. Stewart, we will remember you not only as Director of Instruction but as a man of distinguished character and high standards. You have set a good example for us and have encouraged us to set high standards for ourselves. Your talk with us about our own Code of Ethics will remain in our minds as we develop our plans for the future.

We feel that you are a credit to the Augusta County School Administration and it has been a pleasure knowing you these past five years. So to you, Mr. Stewart, we say thanks—until we meet again.

Wilson High School Administration

MR. HUBERT W. MONGER
Principal Wilson Memorial High School

Mr. Monger: father, sportsman, student, friend, and principal. Mr. Monger has two sons: Gary, a senior at Wilson and Steve, a fifth grader. Our principal likes all sports and is an active participant in many; tennis and golf are his favorites. His aims are to someday become a superintendant of schools and to obtain his PhD degree.

Mr. Monger, you have helped us through our years in high school. For all this aid we have only two words to express our appreciation, "Thank You" . . .

Contributed by Stoney Campbell

We think of Mr. Booker in two ways: As the Athletic Director and Assistant Principal of our school, who goes out of his way to help us with our many problems and as the Mr. Booker who loves to fish in a cool mountain stream or go to a coin club meeting. No matter how we look at Mr. Booker we all feel the same. We want to thank him from the bottom of our hearts for helping us through these past five years. "We will be seeing you again."

Contributed by Ray Cline

MR. A. BROOKS BOOKER
Assistant Principal and Athletic Director

Allen:

Congratulations on your graduation. May happiness and success be your companions through life.
Paul D. Ausherman

MR. PAUL AUSHERMAN

Mr. Ausherman is a favorite teacher but he stands for no foolishness and means what he says. A graduate of Bridgewater College and a member of his College debating team gave him experience as debate coach at WMHS.

Mr. Batson is one of the standbys as he comes to Wilson when it was started in 1947. He is a W. Virginian by birth but a Virginian by choice.

MR. CLARENCE BATSON

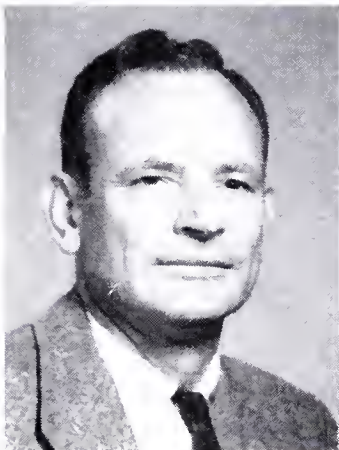

MRS. MILDRED BLACK

Mrs. Black also came to WMHS in 1947 and has served as Director of Guidance for 15 years. She lives in Stuarts Draft with her husband and two spoiled Siamese cats.

Mrs. Booker is at home on the basketball court, the swimming pool or the classroom. Waynesboro is her home but Wilson is her love.

MRS. ALICE BOOKER

MR. GEORGE BROWN

A new math teacher this year. He teaches Math 8 and 9 in A602Y. We hope he feels at home and that he will want to come back next year.

Miss Bunch joined the Home Ec department this year after her graduation from Madison College. That "tiny" car of hers really gets around and often takes her to her home in Maryland.

MISS COBY BUNCH

MR. JAMES BURTON

A retired service man, Mr. Burton is now teaching Math 8, 9 and Intermediate Algebra & Trig in A602X for the first time this year. Welcome to our school and we hope to see you next year.

A705X resounds with such terms as bacilli and phenomena all day long as Mr. C (as we respectfully refer to him) teaches five classes of Biology. We hear he is interested in birds—particularly the stork.

MR. ANGELO CACCIAPAGLIA

Best wishes to a good fellow. m.c.

MR. MARTIN CLINE

Mr. Cline, a Wilson and Bridgewater graduate, is interested in both science and social studies so he has a diversified schedule at school as well as out of school.

Mr. Cole who lives in Waynesboro teaches Math 8, 9 and Science 8. Bussing teen-agers is different from bussing those under your command in the Navy. Good luck to a fine person.

MR. JAMES O. COLE

MRS. NANCY COOK

A whiz at anything she is asked to do! And they are many! She served as chairman of the English teachers and coached the Senior play this year. Cheerful but strict and enthusiastic but poised describe her in mild terms.

A real motherly teacher—one a student will always remember as being pleasant, kind and helpful. She is the 8th grade counselor and when she has time she cooks and feeds the "bachelor" teachers living on the post. A truly wonderful person.

MRS. VIRGINIA CRUTE

The 1964-1965 Wilson Faculty

MISS DORIS DAMERON

Miss Dameron, a senior homeroom sponsor and English teacher, is a W & M graduate. She has fitted into the heart of the school and seems very much at home. A Triumph is her constant companion.

Miss Darden of C717Y is a graduate of Madison College and is teaching Government and Social Studies 8. She is young, vivacious and unottched but—looking.

MISS THELMA DARDEN

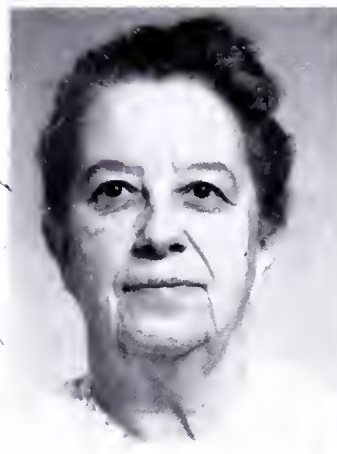

MISS LOUISE DIEHL

Miss Diehl, an excellent secretary—is an even better person. Never does she have "grouchy" times as most school people have; she is always considerate, courteous and goes out of her way to do favors for students and faculty alike. A jewel in a good setting.

The Physics Lab is home to Mr. Driver, as he teaches both physics and chemistry. He graduated from Bridgewater and was awarded his "Masters" from UVA. A very inspiring scientist who keeps abreast of all the latest scientific developments. Keep on liking it here, Mr. Sid.

MR. SIDNEY DRIVER

MISS LILLIAN EISENBERG

Miss Eisenberg's students know their math! She is enthusiastic about her teaching and instills a love for learning in her pupils. She has a keen sense of humor which helps her and her students over rough places. A beloved and respected teacher; a hard combination to find. Best wishes and good luck.

Mrs. East holds her English classes in B711X, close to the Library. She drives a lovely green Pontiac. She is serious and reserved but pleasant and friendly.

MRS. ELIZABETH EAST

MISS PAULINE DUTTON

Our FHA sponsor is a real extrovert who gets things done by getting everyone to work. She loves a good time—is a talker and always has a happy smile for everyone. A popular teacher and good friend.

A jack of all trades as this young man has many tasks to perform other than teach his Government classes. He is 11th grade counselor and keeps the busses and drivers in running shape. A big white Cadillac occupies his mind and his spare time.

MR. FRANK DRUMHELLER

MR. JAMES F. FURR

Mr. Furr one of the younger married men on the faculty lives in Waynesboro. He is on authority on American History and the students find his classes alive and interesting. His bug job is keeping his next door neighbor, Mr. Ausherman, straight. Ha. Ha.

Red-headed and a siren! She is a graduate of Madison and rules the library with an iron hand—have you noticed the increased number of students going to the library for "reference work"? A really sweet but sophisticated young lady just out of college.

MISS SUSAN GARDNER

MISS HAZEL GARLAND

Miss Garland loves to teach little boys and she can really understand their likes and dislikes. She doesn't stand for any foolishness but she is always happy and willing to help any student who is interested in helping himself.

A quiet man who goes about his teaching with poise and assurance. He teaches typing all day long and maybe he hears the click of typewriters in his sleep. He is well liked and we hope he likes us well enough to keep our typewriters clicking for a long time.

MR. LARRY GOCHENOUR

Monter. Jr.: There's nothing you all the luck and success in life. There certainly enjoyed knowing you and riding in all those big cars and trucks. Play it cool and don't get a hold of to big a bomb. Charles Drumheller.

The 1964-1965 Wilson Faculty

MISS GLORIA GREGORY

The world traveling nurse. Last year it was Hawaii. 1965? Off again somewhere for a jaunt. She is another Wilson graduate who came home to roost after graduating from Medical College of Virginia. No foolishness about her—but sweet and tantalizing when you know her.

Our agriculture and General mechanics teacher is a graduate of VPI and U. Va. He is quite a talker and the men's lounge often rings with his stories and laughter during second lunch period. He minds his own business and accomplishes much.

MR. CARROLL GUYNN

MR. HAMPTON HAIRFIELD

He came to us from elementary work and we are so glad. He is a fine addition to the English department and has won the respect of students and teachers. He is an eligible bachelor and we hope will find a lovely mate.

Mr. Hamilton would be a fine person to ship wreck on an island with as he is such a wonderful and understanding man. He is interested in his students learning subject matter but he is more interested in them developing into the best possible persons. He is jolly, sincerely interested in young people and a fine teacher.

MR. JESSIE HAMILTON

MRS. VICTORIA HARRIS

This summer saw Mrs. Harris receive her M.A. from Madison College. She is married to a former Wilson student and they live in Staunton. She is an energetic, conscientious teacher who makes biology interesting.

Mr. Heatwole and his new wife make their home in Staunton. The French classes are filled and running over this year which indicates a good teacher and interesting labs.

MR. B. G. HEATWOLE

MR. W. A. HILL

Sweet notes or sour notes as long as it's music—Mr. Hill is thrilled. He is a stickler for practices and then the performances leave nothing to be desired. We see too little of Mr. Hill as he is serving the elementary schools half a day. A thoroughly delightful and natural person.

Mr. Hiner, another Wilson graduate, is the new basketball coach as well as carrying his old teaching load of math. He won't stand for any foolishness but his students like him and his method of teaching.

MR. ALAN HINER

MISS MARGARET HOLLAND

A Spanish teacher who has traveled to Spain and many other foreign countries. She has a Spanish III class for the first time this year. Being a guidance counselor and Varsity Cheerleading Sponsor take her time when she is out of the classroom. She enjoys the cheerleading trips with the girls, especially the "unexpected one" to Raanoke!

Petite, efficient, and a real eyecatcher is this young math teacher who hails from Vesuvius. She is always willing to help students as much as necessary to see that he understands. A popular teacher but one you can't pull tricks on.

MISS BETSY HUMPHRIES

MISS RAMOMA JOHNSON

Life around her is never dull as the unexpected is always happening. Full of vim, vigor and vitality she makes her students meet high requirements but it's never a chore, always a pleasure. We hope this tiny bit of spark and electricity will always plug in at WMHS.

Mrs. Loyd has moved her room to A704Y this year and here she teaches Geometry and Math 12. She is always in a splutter and a rush—as she not only has school and church work but is a Girl Scout leader. In her spare time she explores caves and in the quiet moments knits.

MRS. BETTY LOYD

The 1964-1965 Wilson Faculty

MRS. VIOLET MABRY

Mrs. Mabry is a graduate of Mary Washington College. She formerly lived at Waynesboro but now calls Stuarts Draft home. Two growing children occupy much of her time but she always has time to listen to the woes of her senior English or American History students.

We knew her when her name was Balcs as she graduated from Wilson before attending Madison College. This is her first year as a science teacher and we hope she likes us as much as we like her.

MRS. CAROL McALLISTER

MR. JAMES W. McCLUNG

Mr. McClung in his first year of teaching came back to the place where his mother had previously taught. He is a very eligible bachelor, cultured, poised and friendly. Take off your hat and stay awhile.

Head of the science department this year and a returnee from last year's faculty. He lives in Grottoes and is interested in all phases of science—but especially astronomy.

MR. EDWARD MELTON

MR. KENNETH NEWTON

The man most in demand for dances, plays, closing of school activities, and annuals. His talent in art is surpassed only by his willingness to help when the occasion arises. We salute you as a true Wilsonite.

Quiet is the best way to describe this young gentleman who is active in the Phys. Ed and sports program. Kind, easy-going and pleasant tell you much of his personality. Wilson and W & M claim him as graduates.

MR. PHIL MORRIS

MRS. CLAUDYNE R. PALMER

Mrs. Palmer teaches English 9 and 10 and serves as counsellor for several sections of these two grades for the first time this year. She is a truly understanding and sympathetic person and we feel fortunate to have her in our midst. Don't leave us!

A small man with a big heart and a tremendous task of coordinating the D. E. program. Because of ill health he retired from teaching at the end of the first semester and we certainly miss him. Mr. Persinger died March 24, 1965.

MR. JAMES PERSINGER

MR. VINSEN POST

Last year he was a new groom; this year a new papa. Congratulations! He is the driver training instructor as well as an important part of the coaching staff.

MR. GEORGE SERGEANT

A nightingale in men's attire is the head of the choral department. He just couldn't stay away from us—so after several years' absence he was welcomed back with open arms. All he keeps asking for is "Bassos—and more bassos".

MR. JESSE RIDGEWAY

Mr. Ridgeway has been a favorite "Chem" teacher for many years around these parts—and he has been almost as famous for his "stories" (at which we must laugh) as for his lectures. Good grades in this class are hard to come by but students flock to enroll.

A quiet natured man but a worker and a perfectionist in his metal shop. He is every inch a gentleman and a vital part of the school faculty. His classes have become very popular.

MR. KARL RAPP

The 1964-1965 Wilson Faculty

MRS. EUNICE SHANKS

The second cog in the office wheel which keeps the school running so smoothly. Mrs. Shanks, despite her many pleasant and unpleasant tasks, remains kind, courteous and helpful. A joy to work with.

MRS. JESSIE R. SHOMO

Middlebrook claims Mrs. Shomo and her Commissioner of Revenue husband as citizens. She received her B.S. and M.A. degrees from Madison and has served as Home Ec teacher since 1947. This year her room became champion "attenders at school".

MRS. HAZEL SPITZER

Mrs. Spitzer can knit faster than you can conjugate a verb—but she has other accomplishments such as teaching English 9 and 11 in a most interesting manner. She is a New Hope resident and a U. of Md. graduate. Keep up the fine work! We're for you!

MR. JACK STALNAKER

Athletics, sports and a wife are this gentleman's interests. Mr. Stalnaker, a native of W. Virginia, had a most successful season as football coach this last season. He is popular with his boys and with the student body as a whole.

MR. GERALD K. STUMP

Another graduate of Wilson and Bridgewater, Mr. Stump now teaches Government and American History. We found out he's a staunch Republican but a good sport as well. A certain "little girl" in his life is becoming a "big girl".

MR. DOUGLAS SWAIN

Accidents can happen—and often do. Ask Mr. Swain. We're happy his accidents wasn't any more serious as we think he is tops. A South Carolinian by birth we hope to make a Virginian of him by choice.

MRS. IRIS W. TAYLOR

A hard worker who is always busy. A staunch member of the Phy. Ed. dept. who will receive her degree from U. Va. this summer. Her policeman husband is her staunch support and often comes by to eat lunch with her.

MRS. LEOLA THOMAS

Mrs. Thomas, one of the senior sponsors, is a kind and gentle person, always thinking of ways to show her love for young people. She teaches exciting classes in Math 8 and Latin. Her students respect her ability and share her love of Latin.

MR. ROBERT WENGER

Bookkeeping and General Business classes are popular choices and Mr. Wenger the teacher could be the reason. They find him fair in all his dealings. We hope he likes Wilson enough to stay a long time.

MRS. SUE WIGGINS

Madison did claim Mrs. Wiggins but we have become so attached to her we at Wilson claim her as our own advanced typing and shorthand teacher.

MR. PAUL J. WRIGHT

Mr. Wright has little contact with girls of the student body as his Industrial Arts classes are made up entirely of boys. He is quiet and reserved but an interested and excellent teacher, well-liked by his students and appreciated by the faculty.

MR. JOSEPH ZAPOTOCZNY

Wouldn't it be easier to say "Mr. Z"? A newcomer to Wilson whose wife is also a teacher. Science is his teaching field but sports are his love. Science 8 and 9 have come alive under his direction and he has quickly won our hearts with his sunny disposition and good nature.

MR. ROY M. KELLEY, JR.

Mr. Kelley is almost too new for us to know much about as he came during the second semester to replace Mr. Persinger as D. E. coordinator. He is a former teacher at National Business College and now lives in Stuarts Draft.

Our Students Who Pursue Technical And Vocational Training At Valley Technical School

The very best of everything Jr. May your life be full and rich
(and also filled with care). Take care in the future,
I wish you well.

Fred

WILSON MEMORIAL CHAPTER

The National Honor Society is, as the name suggests, an honor organization whose prime objective is to promote;

1. Scholarship
2. Leadership
3. Character
4. Service

As a qualification for membership, a student must maintain a "B" average during his high school years, and must be recommended by the faculty.

ACTIVITIES OF THE F. T. A.

November 21-22—F. T. A. Convention attended by three of our members, Ann York, Dahle York, and Webb Booker.

December 11—A farewell party for the student teachers was given by four F. T. A. members, Donald Sandridge, Dannie Thomas, Ann York and Linda East.

December 22—Cupcakes made by the members of the F. T. A. were distributed to the faculty.

The bookstore was open to the students everyday for the first time with a greater variety of books.

Paper and pencils have also been on sale for the first year in the bookstore.

A point system has been set up for earning pins and certificates, which in the past have been presented to those thought deserving them.

Teaching is a profession to the degree that its members are professional. A teacher is a liberally educated person and a believer in his service to society. He constantly seeks new knowledge and skill in order to improve his practice.

Teachers share a scholarly attitude and concern for helping people learn. They find satisfaction in dealing with ideas and people, in enlarging the fund of human wisdom, and in improving the use of knowledge.

The Wilson Memorial Safety Club meets at various times during the year. The purpose of these meetings is to present problems confronting the bus drivers and their substitutes, and to discuss policies of safe and efficient school bus operation. We have also had as our guests both state and county officials to give talks about safety and the interpretation of state laws regulating our buses.

The nineteen buses that we now operate, transport approximately 1250 students to Wilson Memorial as well as serving six elementary schools. We have thirty drivers and substitutes who must drive all types of roads and highways in all kinds of weather. We serve communities as far away as Harriston, Love, and Middlebrook. This is a tremendous task, but we do it as safely and efficiently as possible.

Mr. Drumheller—the man who keeps the bus drivers and the bus riders straight.

The Wilson Guidance Department

Counselors are on hand every period of the day to help students with their problems.

Mrs. Block, Director of the Guidance department, talks with Webb Baaker about going to college.

Mrs. Palmer counsels with Ann Yark, a senior, who plans to teach.

Miss Johnson, a 10th grade counselor, talks with a favorite subject, a 10th grade boy.

Barbara Elkins finds the answer to her problems with the help of Mrs. Crute, an eighth grade counselor.

Not shown in the pictures are counselors Miss Margaret Holland and Mr. Franklin Drumheller.

Wilson Pep Club

IT'S ONWARD, WILSON

It's onward, Wilson! It's onward, Wilson!
Hold high your banner green and white
Keep fighting Wilson, keep fighting, Wilson
We'll sing our song for you tonight.

Rah! Rah!

We're all behind you, we're rooting for you,
Your loyal team will surely try.
Their best is for you, they'll carry you through,
So onward, Wilson, Wilson High!
We've got the spirit, the real school spirit,
We're all for one and one for all.
We'll stick together, no matter whether
The skies are blue or raindrops fall.

Rah! Rah!

A thousand voices give out in chorus;
Your dear name echoes through the sky;
We'll keep it ringing, we'll keep on singing
So onward, Wilson, Wilson High!

The Pep Club is the only organization in school whose aim is to promote school spirit. Each member is interested in all athletic events and plays an important part in the cheering spirit of these games.

We hope the Pep Club will get on its toes and stay on its toes from year to year as it has a great deal of influence on the morale and disposition of the entire student body and on the teams.

Colors—National Blue and Corn Gold

Motto—Learning to do, doing to learn, earning to live, living to serve

The FFA is an intra-curricular activity having its origin and root in a definite part of the school curriculum, Vocational Agriculture. Among other things, members learn through active participation how to conduct and take part in a public meeting; to speak in public; to buy and sell cooperatively; to solve their own problems; to finance themselves; and to assume civic responsibility.

In modern times, agriculture is recognized as more than farming. There are many different industries of agriculture—researching, manufacturing, promoting, advertising, selling, servicing, buying, transporting, processing, grading, packaging, distributing, and merchandising. Any boy who has a definite interest in any phase of agriculture is eligible to take Vocational Agriculture, and thereby become a member of the FFA Chapter.

Pictured is Wilson Memorial's Science Club — The Gamma Rays. They have continued their tradition as a most active club. Field trips have been made to the observatory at the University of Virginia to local industries such as General Electric at Waynesboro, and to the Waynesboro News Virginian Offices.

The Gamma Rays also assume sponsorship of the local science fair held at Wilson. A gift by the General Electric Company of $3600.00 worth of electronic components aided greatly those students working on projects in the field of electronics.

Programs in the form of movies, lectures, and demonstrations are held once a month throughout the school year.

The club is interested in assisting the science department in any way possible. Record hops have been held to raise money for the club, some of which will be used to purchase additional equipment which a science department always seems to need.

The Gamma Rays during one of their program meetings when Dr. John C. Well, Head of the Physics Department at Modison College, talked to the group.

The club has an executive committee meeting every first Friday, a business meeting of the complete club every second Friday, and a program meeting every fourth Friday. Members must maintain a "B" average in Science to remain in the club.

Mawyer, Steve Monroe, Clifford Callins, James Harris, Barry Robertson.

The purpose of the Distributive Education Club is to coordinate job training and class activity. This year for the first time there are two classes held during the school day. Contest participation at the local, district and state level is encouraged as a part of the club activity. Club activities include a student-employer banquet, joint meetings with neighboring schools and social activities.

All D. E. students are employed in some phase of retailing for at least 15 hours a week, as well as attend class for one hour each day. For this work which is under the supervision of the D. E. coordinator students receive two high school credits.

Coordinators this year were Mr. Persinger and Mr. Kelley.

The Debate Club under the sponsorship of Mr. Paul Ausherman has nine members. Carolyn Painter, C. A. Wade, Ted Simerson, Ronnie Wyrick, and Pat Cook as a "floater" were the affirmative teams. The negative teams were Steve Geiman, Ruff Lowman, Buck Driver, and John Roller. During the school year the members participated in a series of practice debates between themselves. These debates started in February in preparation for the debates held with the other schools of District V. The debates between the District V schools started in March and the Tournament was held at Fort Defiance High School.

Mary And The Sherry

There was a young girl named Mary
Who drank a whole bottle of sherry
She looked to the sky,
Let out a big sigh,
And said, "I fear it is me they will bury."

By Marian Weems

Innocent

The bed is small, the light is dim tonight.
Oh, why won't they believe I did no wrong?
There is no use for me to try and fight.
I'm poor, no friends, the life I lived is gone,
This cell is dull, the night goes on.
My death is near; There is no time for hope.
"Step out my boy, the men have fixed the rope."

By Brenda Wright

John F. Kennedy

As John F. Kennedy was shaking hands
His heart must have been full of joy
To know that he had a nation to back him
And that to his name was much glory.

Oh, and was President Kennedy your favorite hero?
Yes, never did a man have such charm
That had everybody backing him to go on
Even Republicans, which caused some alarm.

Then one day as Kennedy was riding by Everyone held their breath
On hearing a shot, praying for him
And then from us Kennedy left.

Now from us has gone the man we supported
The man who gave inspiration to us
And to his country his life, is gone
All because of one man's lust.

His nation prayed for him at his death
And to heaven his soul flew
But our hearts were cast to the ground
In sorrow because he was gone.

We will soon be in eternity with President Kennedy
And all will be well
To see his smile and shake his hand
Yes, President Kennedy was swell.

By Mary Spieker

A Man In A Jet

There was once a young man in a jet
Who got hot and he started to sweat,
    He opened the latch,
    Fell out of the hatch,
Now there is no young man in a jet.

Murder!

There was a young lady named Mary
Who strangled her yellow canary.
    She was taken to jail,
    And couldn't get bail,
But escaped on a southbound ferry.

By Brenda Allen

"School Days"

Some people think it's terrible.
    A mile they'd rather run,
Than have to go to school. Oh my!
    It's just a place to learn.

They go to classes wearily,
    While wishing they were through.
Then finally after five years,
    Their wishes all come true.

Now when it's Graduation Night,
    They should let out a sigh.
But no! Instead, they think sad thoughts
    And they sit down and cry.

They think of all the fun they missed
    'Cause they were sad and blue.
But now though it's too late for them,
    It's not too late for you.

So as you go to school each day,
    Oh do the best you can.
Be happy you're a school student.
    You'll never be again.

By Anita Shope

The Girl Who Wanted To Be A Fairy

There was a young lady named Mary,
Who wanted to be a good fairy,
She waved her good wand
But fell into a pond,
And turned into a frog that's scary.

By Jerry Houghton

Beetles Or Beatles?

Believe beetles are "Beatles"?
Before being befuddled,
Beatles aren't bugs but boys,
British born boys,
Wearing bangs below their brows.

By Beth Miller

Snowbound

The crystals of snow, which had escaped from their prison, high above, were now falling with a vibrant intensity. They had now captured everything in sight, creating a picture of complete whiteness. The shrubs and bushes, green with growth, fresh with life, had now changed to a cold, spotless purity, dormant with peace. The mountains, soaring to unknown heights, clothed only in their peaks of white, were now fully dressed in their immaculate gowns of the season, as if anticipating a very special occasion. The hustling, bustling world, with its fast cars and active people, were also changed. Streets were deserted in fear and the griping chill turned the helpless people into a frozen mass of inactivity. All forms of life were stopped by the cold, mysterious flakes of white, with no relief in the forecast.

In a world of tension a feeling of peacefulness had graced the earth. All activity had stopped. We were trapped in A Winter Wonderland, filled with a tranquility, never experienced before.

By Mack Null

The Jungle

The sun was just rising above the deep brown and green of the island hills, spreading the golden light over the white sand and blue sea along the shoreline.

Flowering plants grew in abundance, their variegated colors producing brilliant splashes in contrast with the dark lush greenness of the trees and island grass. Tropical birds with their bright shining feather and strange sounding shrill calls added to the clamor of high pitched monkey voices and the hum of insect colonies. Other animals moved unseen through the black shadows; tigers, leopards, and small armored armadillos.

Suddenly, the jungle became silent, for the animals sensed the presence of an intruder. A man had invaded their paradise. As he cautiously cut his way through the dense undergrowth of jungle plants and vines, a large animal watched him, poised to leap.

"Cut", called the director and the first movie scene was on tape.

Someday Some One Will

As ten year old Tony sat looking out the small window he knew Christmas was only a week away. But Tony was not looking forward to the holidays. For Tony was an orphan. His home was in London's Orphan Home. Tony was a very cute boy with blond hair and blue eyes. But he had only one problem, Tony could not walk.

When Tony was eight he was in an accident. His mother and father were killed and Tony was crippled for life. No one would take Tony into their home so Tony was sent to the orphan home in London where he had become very lonely.

As Tony's nurse pushed him away from the window and down the hall Tony silently prayed for a home on Christmas.

The days and nights went fast for Tony. It was Christmas Eve and Tony was sitting on his favorite place looking out the window. As Tony unhappily sat there he saw his Uncle Glen coming up the walk. The five minutes Tony sat waiting for his uncle to come seemed like an eternity. As the door opened Tony was filled with excitement but when he turned around only the nurse was standing there with several packages.

Tony asked, "Where is Uncle Glen?"

"He could not stay Tony, he said to give you these packages and wish you a merry Christmas," said the nurse.

"But why did not he come in to see me?"

"He did not stay Tony."

"Oh," said Tony with great disappointment.

The nurse pushed Tony down the hall talking as she went along. But Tony was not listening for he was crying.

The next morning Tony awoke early but did not want to get out of bed because he knew it was not going to be a merry day for him. The nurse brought his breakfast in to him and wished him a "Merry Christmas" then disappeared. Tony did not eat but got out of bed and put his clothes on and silently pushed his way down the hall to the small window. There Tony sat very quietly and lonely remembering back two years ago when he was at home with his mother and father. Big tears rolled down Tony's face as he remembered what a joyful time they had had.

Christmas day went slow for Tony. The nurses at the orphan home tried to make things happy for Tony on Christmas Day, but it did not work for Tony was thinking about home.

The days after Christmas were not so bad for Tony. For the nurses and the other children tried to make him happy.

It was now New Years Eve and Tony was still without a home. As he sat at the window looking down the frosty streets and watching the happy children he knew someday some one would come for him and once again give him a home.

"The Visit"

Her footsteps seemed to shatter the quiet, dreary darkness of the night. The air was cool and damp with the mist of the afternoon rain. It was because of the rain that she has come this night. She had planned to visit him in the afternoon, it didn't seem quite so sad and lonely then.

As she slowly climbed the small hill, her brown eyes were moist with the tears she could not hold back. She could see the light now, as she reached the top of the hill, shimmering and shining in the cool night.

As she stood beside the little white fence, the young woman's thoughts whirled back to the happy days she had known long ago. The gay pony rides at the farm, the happy family parties, and especially the warm, tender, understanding love he had.

As the flame flickered across her face, we can see the tiny stream of tears sliding down the smooth, rosy cheeks of twenty-year-old Caroline Kennedy as she stands before her fathers' grave.

Only the muffled, busy sounds of Washington break the mournful silence on the hill.

Three Years

The days and nights seemed to get longer and longer now that Christmas was only two days away. Johnny and his mother were lonely but the loneliness seemed to grow more around this time of the year. Johnny was stricken with leukemia at the age of three, two years before his father was sent to Sing-Sing in New York. The only thing Johnny remembers about his father was when he came in from work he would bring him some kind of a toy.

Johnny and his mother had been discussing what Johnny wanted for Christmas. She cut the conversation short with the excuse that she must write Santa a letter. As she took the envelope and three sheets of paper from the bureau drawer her eyes swelled with tears. "Terry, oh Terry will you ever be home?" The words came slow and thoughtfully. "The lawyer called today. He seems to think your parole is sure to go through. I'm so happy, maybe Johnny will be able to see you."

Terry, Johnny keeps getting weaker and more feeble. All he talks of is you. Of course he doesn't remember you very well. But he does remember the surprises you use to bring him from work. It seems longer than three years since Johnny has seen you. It gets lonely without you. It seems as if it has been ten years since you left. The lawyer told me he thought you would go before the parole board today.

How long will it take you to get home if the parole goes through? I'll wait until I hear from you before I send your box.

I'm so worried about Johnny. Terry, the only thing he has asked for Christmas is to see his daddy. I'll close for now and write later. Please write soon. All my love, Marie. P. S. Papa Nick said to tell you when you got home that he wants you to help him run his cafe. Isn't that wonderful!"

She slipped the letter into the envelope and sealed it. She went in to see Johnny and he was lying in his bed with his hands folded and his eyes closed. He opened his eyes and looked momentarily to see his mother standing at his bed side with tears in her eyes.

"What's wrong Mommy?" Johnny asked with concern.

"Nothing son, Mommy's just worried about something. Now what were you doing?"

"Praying, Mommy."

"Praying for what Johnny?"

"Praying for Daddy to come home for Christmas."

"Johnny, Mommy's going to tell you something, but don't get your hopes up. Daddy might be home just to see you."

"Mommy is he really coming home?"

"I hope so son but for the time being go to sleep and get some rest. You have to keep your strength up if you want to see Daddy."

As he closed his eyes Marie leaned over and kissed her son on his forehead. She turned out the small lamp beside his bed. As she walked out of his room she turned and looked once more at her pale son.

When she rose early the next morning the sun seemed to shine brighter and the room seemed warmer. Sleep had eased her worry. As she looked out of the window she saw the earth in its white blanket. The fresh fallen snow glistened in the sunlight. When she looked at the clock it was later than she expected. She slipped on her robe and tiptoed to Johnny's room. She opened the door slowly to find him looking out of the window with a smile on his face. This was the first time he had seemed happy in several months. Marie looked at him with joy in her eyes.

"Well Johnny, why is my little boy so happy this morning?"

"My Daddy is coming home."

"Johnny, I said he might come home. I'm not sure so don't get your hopes up."

"Mommy I know he's coming. I know he's coming real soon."

"Mrs. Haney will be up in a few minutes. I guess I better get ready for work. What do you want for breakfast?"

"Mommy I want oatmeal, toast, and a great big glass of milk."

The doorbell rang and Johnny said, "I bet that's Mrs. Haney."

"I'll go and let her in and while I'm dressing she'll bring you your breakfast," stated Marie as she leaves the room.

Marie opened the door. Before she could say anything Terry said, "Hi, sweetheart, my parole went through yesterday."

Marie threw her arms around her husband and burst into tears, "Oh Terry, I've missed you so much!"

"Marie, we'll never be separated again."

Four days later Marie looked at Terry with tears in her eyes and said, "Terry I'm so use to going in and checking on him each morning. Life seems so, I don't know. Not exactly empty but cold."

Saturday

Not getting up at the crack of dawn,
Being able to eat eggs and sausage
Without meeting that yellow bus.
Having mom and dad around the house.
Good ole Saturday.

Feeling free to go to the barn,
To see cousin Kay who always comes down,
We saddle Freda and Babes the brown and grey mares
And ride and ride with the wind in our hair.
Good ole Saturday.

To go home at noon and open the door
And smell home made bread just baked,
Fried country ham and brown beans.
Mom yells, "Come on, you Great Society, let's eat!"
Good ole Saturday.

The Long Night

I walked and walked, on and on,
Up the steps to the door,
Across the room to the table,
I stopped and looked across the floor.

A few faces there across the way,
I seemed to know in the crowd,
As my gaze passed around the hall,
My search ended in the crowd.

No one to ask to dance I thought,
No one to hold tonight,
I should have known not to come,
At least for fun this night.

Sad I was, I will admit,
I looked upon the people,
Then and there I was surprised
Her friend, I thought, asked me.

What she said I knew for the truth,
She was alone this night,
As the music started she wanted to dance,
I accepted with delight.

We danced and danced the night through,
This dance did last a time,
A time of a year and a month or two,
Up to this day and time.

Time

Time goes on as though we were not here,
It never stops for sorrow, pain, nor fear.
Although we never know what time will bring,
We never prepare, just hope and dream.

Time steals the hours from us,
Although we always seem to be in a rush,
Time is a precious thing, any would say,
Although we waste many hours throughout the day.

"And Then There Were None"

Lonely darkness crept up the old, crumbling stone walk. The creaking gate at the front of the house seemed to be at the mercy of the wind. The chilling wind buckled the helpless trees as it whipped around the dingy corners of the house. The sky was without a light, and only occasional flashes of lightening which electrified the sky, showed the old unpainted house with its broken windows. From the rear of the house, a small candle could be seen flickering in an upstairs window. The high grass which surrounded the house showed that it had been vacanted for many years. Rain was falling in blinding torrents.

The biting wind tore at the clasps of the coat of the lonely figure walking slowly up the street. The man's head was bent to keep as much of the rain out of his face as possible. Yet, this night was perfect.

Stealthily he slipped into the back yard and made his way through the tall, cold wet, stringy grass to the secret door he had used so many times before. Perhaps his mercenary had not returned because he had forgot his instructions and had been trapped.

He gently opened the door to the passage and slipped inside. He crept along the turns of the passage made unfamiliar by long years of his absence. The house was in a state of disrepair. Grand Dame had given an excellent illusion of vacancy, but there was always that candle in the window. Local inhabitants had always attributed it to her ghost. Only Ivan knew.

As he progressed in the darkness, his foot caught on something and he stumbled. He retracted his hand, and found it to be dripping with some foul-smelling substance. He fished for his lighter and lit it. There on the floor across the passage lay the putrescent remains of a human body. He slowly examined the corpse and recoiled in horror when he found it was his mercenary of a few weeks before.

Slowly he crept on along the damp passageway to the stairs. A hissing and slithering noise caused him to freeze in his tracks.

Suddenly he felt a huge, crushing weight about him and a giant coil about his chest. He remembered hazily where the light switch was, and staggered for the wall. A wave of relief swept over him as the lights flashed on; this relief quickly petrified into horror as he saw the coil about his chest belonged to a huge snake and the ugly head was raised to strike.

Just as suddenly, the snake uncoiled about his victim as if by some unseen command. The lights flicked off and he realized he was beginning to rise. Soon the floor ceased to rise, and he realized he was on the upstairs floor. "Good evening, Ivan."

"Grand Dame! It's you!"

"Yes, Ivan. Are you surprised? I've been waiting for you. I thought you'd never return."

"I felt as if I had to. Something drew me here. But—the snake. . . Is it yours? Why did it attack me?"

"Yes, Ivan. The snake is a pet of mine. I've trained him to obey my commands. He won't harm you unless I order him, though."

"Then you ordered him to attack me?"

"Yes I did. See the candle. Remember how it came to be placed there? Only you and I know."

"Yes, Grand Dame. I remember. The candle is a sign to remind me of Marie. I used to love her, but you felt I should not love her. So, you killed her. I never could understand why. You told me not to try to understand, but to leave. You placed a candle in the window to serve as a sign of my life. As soon as it ceased to burn, I would die. Yet, all of these years, you kept it burning. And now—"

"And now, Ivan, the time has come. The candle is nearly consumed. I want you to suffer these last few moments of life. And then—my snake shall dispose of you, as it did your confused mercenary. You ruined my daughter's life, and now I shall ruin yours."

"No, no, no! You can't do this to me!"

Ivan jumped from his chair and ran toward the door, only to be stopped abruptly in his tracks by Grand Dame's leveled 32 pistol. Slowly he retreated and sat down.

"Watch the candle, Ivan. See it gasping for its last breath as you soon will."

The flame of the candle flickered wanly, sputtered, and died. As if by some secret signal, the huge snake slithered toward Ivan. As it was about to strike, Ivan jumped from his seat and ran across the room to the surprised Grand Dame. As he was wrestling with her for the pistol, the huge snake began to wrap itself about his body. As he felt his life slowly drifting away from him, he made one last desperate lunge for Grand Dame. He was successful in wrapping his large hands about her neck. With his own last gasps of breath, he choked the old struggling woman with his slowly ebbing strength. Then with low, moaning, agonizing cries, they both fell heavily to the floor, lifeless.

Outside lonely darkness engulfed the old house and its mysteries forever.

Three Little Men

As I was looking at the sky one night
I saw an object with a big bright light,
As it came closer, a flying saucer I did spy
As I looked, it landed in a pasture near by.

And to my surprise! Three Little Men stood aside.
They pointed a ray gun straight at me
It's only a dream, can't you see!

Two Worlds

The water was a multi-colored prism, shades of blue—
Rich, light, laughing, gay shades of blue;
With a rhythm all its own
timed beautifully, like a swan—
a graceful dancer.
The splendor was enchanting.

But, something shattered the beauty,
The immovable rocks with their unbending joints;
yield to nothing—
Seeming to hold the world,
Never giving up their position.

Can the reality and illusion
of this cosmos be one?

Dangerous Beauty

Cool, quiet, calm, with a peacefulness in the air that would never let you know that an avalanche was going to take place. There are places like this at Aspen, Colorado. Warning signs are put up, for at any time the whole side of the snowy mountain could cave in.

The tall secretive mountains are quiet, so as to never let you know that danger is near. As you are on the slopes, the wind blows in your face, making the blood rush, giving you kind of a fresh feeling, a feeling of freedom. As you listen to the wind you can assume it is whistling happy little tunes that make you feel happy.

Looking out across the white snow covered slopes you feel that the white beauty seems to possess a feeling of purity, and that nothing could go wrong.

Who could believe that this place of peacefulness joy, and beauty, and purity, could possibly be a death trap.

After five years he had come back. Come back to the place where the tragedy had occurred. The tragedy he thought he would never forget. How could he? He was there. He had seen the avalanche and he had tried to warn her, but it was too late. The rolling snow had swept her frail body into the white mass, and she was gone. He had not skied since then. Now, after five years he had come back. Was it too soon? Could he look down on the snow covered slopes and forget the accident?

As he walked through the door of the cabin he had rented, he knew it was the same one. The windows faced one of the ski slopes, and the tall silent mountains could be seen in the distance. He looked out of these windows now, as he had looked out of them that night, searching for something. That night it was a way to tell Donna's parents of her accident and death. Today, he looked for courage and for a way to forget the past. That night he had found what he was looking for, but could he do it again? Only time would tell.

For three days the courage he possessed was not enough. He had gotten on the left and had gotten to the top of the mountain but then his courage had left him.

Tomorrow, his last day at the lodge, he would do it. No matter what happened he was going to do it. As he prepared for bed in his cabin, he could still remember the accident, not thinking of anything else. He waited for tomorrow with fear and doubts, memories of the accident.

The next day as he started up the ski lift the wind blew in his face as it had done five years before, reminding him more than ever of the horrible things that had happened years before. These dreadful memories made him want to turn back, but he made himself continue on. As he reached the top of the mountain he saw other people skiing down the mountain having fun, laughing, and playing. How could they have so much fun when he was so miserable. He sat down on the woodpile beside the ski lodge looking at the white slopes that had once meant laughter and fun, but now made such a bad impression in his mind. He finally came out of his dream and realized that the quicker he started down the slope the better he would feel, so he forced himself to get up and start down. The wind blew in his face, making him feel alive again. For the first time he realized that by tormenting himself he would never be able to bring Donna back.

When he stopped at the bottom of the slope he stopped to rest. Looking back up the mountain he could see the white snow, so pure, on the secretive, silent mountains. You would never believe that such beauty could be so dangerous.

Home Is Safety

It was a perfect day! The cold, crisp wind found its way in and out of the tall, majestic trees causing them to sway as if they were keeping time to some soft melodious tune. As I sat by the fence, a feeling of tranquility passed through my body, but I knew this peacefulness would not last for long. Soon, too soon for me, the ceaseless howling of the hounds, the snorting and whinnying of the horses, and loud laughter of the hunters would break this spell.

I jumped up from my resting place and ran into the cool of the woods. As I passed through the brush and saw the animals scurrying about, I suddenly remembered what my mother had taught me, "When you hear the horns, the galloping of the horses, and the dogs barking, RUN!" I must remember what to do when this happens, I said to myself.

Suddenly, as I sat thinking, I heard it! The dogs were barking and it seemed as if they were coming closer and closer. I sat in the brush, motionless, almost afraid to breathe. Closer and closer the sounds of the barking came. I was literally shaking with fear. All at once they were upon me! I sprang from my hiding place and ran with all the strength I had, with the breath of the hounds beating down on my tracks close behind.

My heart was beating so rapidly that I thought it would burst, but still I kept wildly running. The vivacious, never-ending barking of the hounds rang out in my mind. All sense of direction was gone and my legs seemed just to be carrying me away FROM something, and not to anything. The once constant pounding of the horses' hoofs were diminishing, but the barking was still present. These few moments of peace gave me a chance to regain my composure and sense of direction. Home was not too far away. If only I can. . . I hear the galloping again, but this time it's louder and I can feel their vibrations in the ground.

HOME! I've got to get home! This was all I could think of. The briars and stickers of the underbrush clung to me as I quickly fled past. My heart was pounding even faster, but not from fear or exhaustion. Now it's from joy, the joy of seeing my home, my safety from the hunters and their dogs.

Once safe in my home I closed my eyes and tried to remember all that had taken place in the last thirty minutes. My mind just would not function, for all I could think of was that I was safe, the dogs had lost my trail, and the hunters had lost me—THE FOX!

Veils Of Mystery

Mysterious lady in pink
Walking along the shore,
Floating in the moonlight
But drifting away from me.

Oh, how I wished to follow,
To never lose sight of her;
But, merely went to the water's edge
And stood as she had done.

Imagine my amazement
To find written in the sand
A note as vague as its sender
Two words: Follow me.

For a short time I followed,
Then stopped, realizing
That surely the beautiful lady
Couldn't have meant it for me.

I stood and watched her fade away,
Shrouded in her mysterious veil of pink,
While I, unknown and unknowing,
Became engulfed in a black mantle of grief.

"Fear"

Jack sensed it from the moment the picture was given to him, it was somehow evil and would be a disaster to him.

The picture itself was harmless, just like most old pictures, which were hanging on living room walls. The scene in the picture was that of a hunting party. Beautiful horses, baying hounds and men clad in red hunting jackets filled the picture.

Maybe it was the red; maybe it was the hounds, but as for Jack he'd rather not look at it. It was only out of courtesy he allowed it to stay, for his once best friend Ken Palmer, had given it to him for Christmas two years ago.

Their friendship had been one of a solid foundation. There was nothing Ken wouldn't do for Jack, and vice versa. Ken and Jack had been friends since early childhood and the bond between them was very strong.

At times Jack's eyes would become fastened to the red jackets in the picture, and only by a struggle was he able to make himself leave the room.

People coming and going knew nothing of this strange obsession which over-powered Jack.

It was a week before Thanksgiving and as the annual fox hunt drew nigh, the questions of the men at the club only became more demanding. Each year Jack was asked over and over to go on the fox hunt, but for some reason, unexplained to them, Jack seemed to detest the whole idea.

Well, this year was to be different, Jack decided to go and overcome this silly fear.

The morning was crisp and perfect in every way, Jack was beginning to believe he would enjoy the hunt after all, when who arrived but Ken Palmer.

The men made a show as old friends, but Jack couldn't explain it—that gulf between them, since the picture.

Jack determined to close the breach and forget that silly picture, chose to be with Ken's group.

Despite his determination Jack kept watching Ken, expecting anything, but not knowing exactly what or how it would come.

The dogs had once again picked up the trail and the party, with Jack and Ken leading, was close behind.

When men tell the story it goes like this: "I froze and prayed the horse would make the jump on its own, but it wasn't possible, Jack had waited just too long to urge it on. I noticed all morning, that Jack had something of grave concern on his mind. Whatever it was it couldn't have been that important, to make him simply forget a jump!"

And from Ken Palmer came this, "Jack's tan riding habit was red with blood and his face was painfully twisted."

The Prom

It was the night of the Junior-Senior prom. The gym had been turned into a "Roman Holiday" by dint of much brainracking and ingenuity of the Junior girls. Candles were set up all across the gym, and they gave an air of mystery and romance to the room. Tables were placed invitingly along the walls, patiently waiting for the honor of being the ones to hear the conversations between the couples.

At one side of the gym was the band podium, spotlighted by more strands of the waxy candles, lighting the way for the players fingers to spin their magic cocoon of music.

Finally, at the stroke of 8:00, the doors were flung open to receive the first arrivals. Soon, the gym began to take on an air quite unlike the one that usually hung over it.

Girls were everywhere in lovely, exquisite dresses floating with ribbons and laces; with sweet smelling corsages placed on shoulders, wrists, or waists with tremblingly joyous fingers.

Boys were also trying to adjust themselves to the stiffness of collars, suspenders and cummerbands; but all the while feeling rather proud of themselves.

By half past nine, even the most timid or the latest comers were on the dancefloor, the couples clinging closely together.

From afar, it might have looked like softly colored butterflies entwined with their favorite flower, as the candles slowly burned down and faint light flickered on this fairyland scene which would be etched forever on the minds of all.

But the big bear growled,
The little bear howled,
And scared him, so that he spilled it.

Snow

Snow was falling covering the field like a blanket. The snow covered pine trees had icicles hanging from them.

On the hill children could be seen with their sleds making paths in the snow. The sound of the children laughing and playing gave me a warm feeling inside to know that at least someone could enjoy the snow.

Also in the field were two adults who were making a snowman. It was a joy to see grown-ups having fun and enjoying themselves. They seemed as though they were still children at heart.

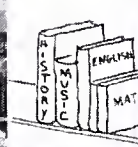

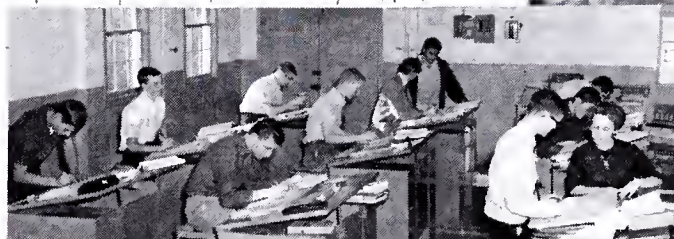

The snow-covered field, the trees covered with icicles and the blue sky hovering over the field gives a picture of peacefulness and sincerity. Just to be able to sit and watch the scenes outside made me want to be out there.

As I sat there remembering all the good times I used to have I sensed a funny feeling in my throat.

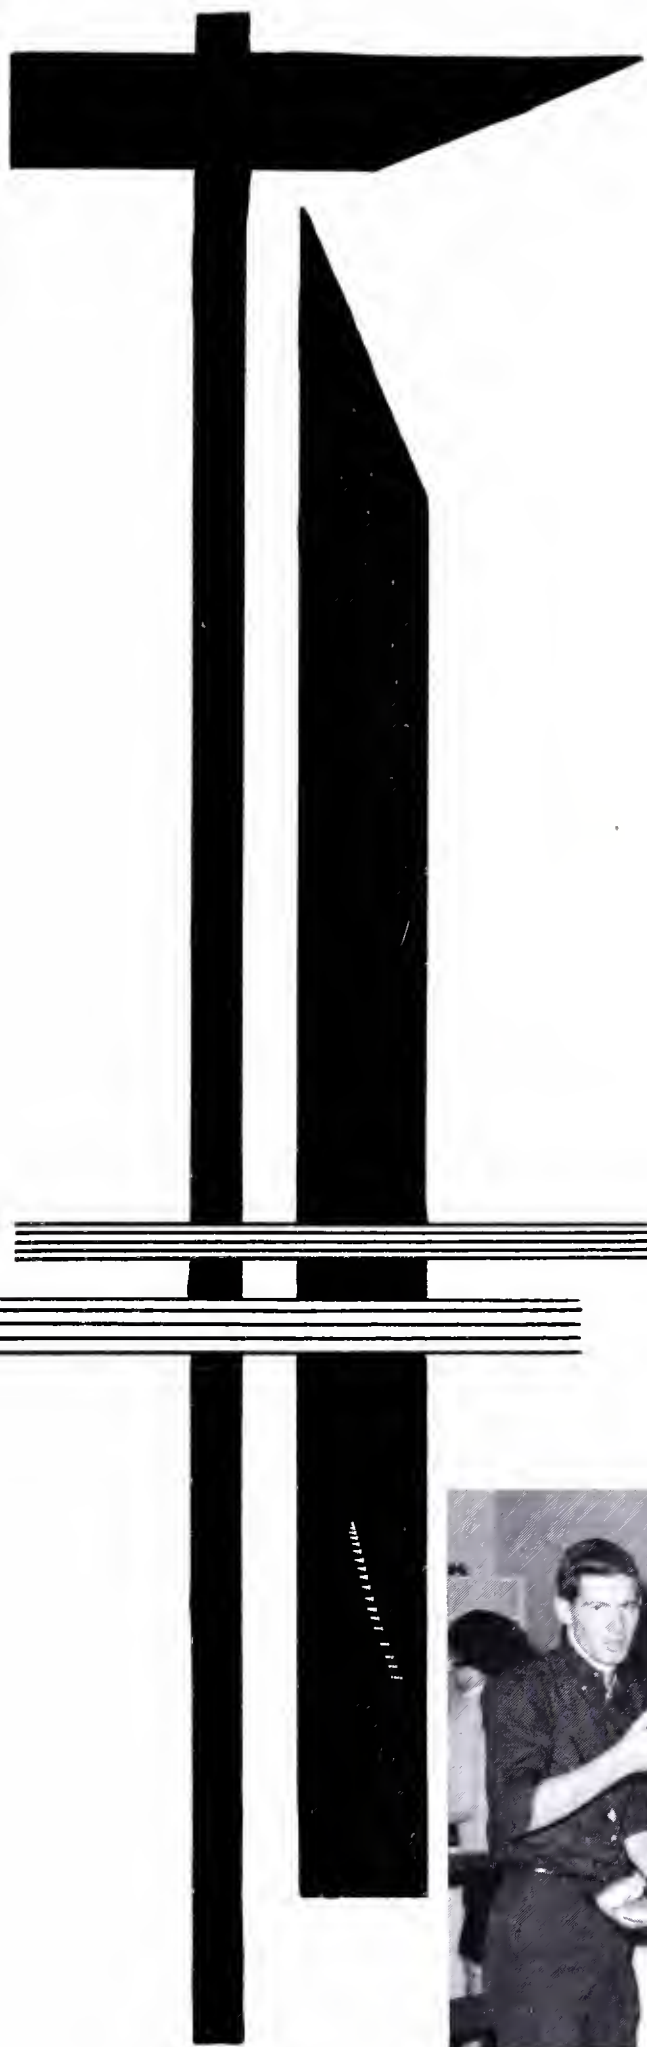

Feeling a little lonesome and tired I rolled my wheelchair back to the bed.

Senior Class Will

We, the Senior Class of 1965, being of reasonably sane mind and sound body, do make this our last will and testimony as follows:

All our memories, both happy and unhappy, of exams, Senior Play, Senior Hall of Fame, the lovely Junior-Senior Prom, graduation exercises; also loyalty, aspirations for, and spirit of peace to all of those who may profit by it, as we have learned to do in our five years of high school, we devise and bequeath to those who will follow us in the footsteps of education, for their own use and benefit forever.

Executed at Fishersville, Virginia, May 31, 1965.

The Senior Class of 1965

The foregoing instrument was in our presence, signed and sealed by the said Senior Class, at the end thereof, and by them published and declared as and for their last will, and at their request and in their presence and in the presence of one another, we hereunto subscribe our names as attesting witnesses, at Fishersville, Virginia, on May 31, 1965.

Mr. Hubert Monger

Mrs. Mildred Black

Mr. Jesse Ridgeway

I, Alvina Arehart, will my nickname of "Alvin" to the person who gave it to me, C. A. Wade, in hopes that he will forget it.

I, David Arbogast, leave my penmanship to Miss Darden in hopes that students can read comments put on test.

I, Martha Balsley, leave my FHA gavel to Linda Fitzgerald.

I, Mary Jane Balsley, will my ulcer diet of crackers and milk to Mr. Hiner. I know he worries a lot.

I, Timmy Balsley, leave my beanie to Clyde Wade; maybe he can stuff more "Smarts" in it than I did.

I, Beverly Bellamy, will my slightly used chemistry notebook to any underclassman; and a case of Metrecal to Mr. Stump.

I, Cynthia Boliek, leave my "excellent" English grades to anyone who doesn't need them.

I, Steve Boling, will my good looks and Waynesboro ring to an underclassman who loves Waynesboro as much as I do.

I, Loretta Bosserman, leave my pigeon toes to next year's star basketball player.

I, Frankie Bridgeforth, will my endless supply of chewing gum to my brother Douglas. Let's keep it in the family.

I, Vickie Brooks, leave my leopard-skin pocketbook to Janice Alexander.

I, Harry Brown, will my boots to Mrs. Mabry. "Please wear them with pride."

I, Tommy Brown, will to some lucky junior boy my seat at the corner of Miss Darden's desk.

I, Connie Bradley, bequeath some of my shortness to the tallest basketball player on next year's team, even if he doesn't want it.

I, Jane Breuer, leave my height to any underclassman who is another "waist watcher."

I, Junior Brownlee, leave the mouthpiece from my French horn to Janet Hollinger so that she can play as well as I do.

Senior Class Will

I, Carolyn Bright, will my height to the eighth graders who cannot reach the corridor shelves.

I, Donnie Bryan, will my back seat on the bus to whoever gets there first next year.

I, Eldon Brydge, will my class ring and my yellow Mustang to Sue Mawyer.

I, David Benevitch, will my spare time for reading to anyone who needs it.

I, Mike Cale, will my pitching arm to Gary Mawyer.

I, Carol Campbell, will my shyness to Jack Copper. Please use it in moderation.

I, Charles Campbell, will my draft papers to my brother Gary who isn't married and will need them.

I, Delores Campbell, leave my quietness to all boisterous eighth grade boys. Sit down and shut up!

I, Stoney Campbell, will my way with women to John Mowry. I never could do anything with it.

I, Wayne Campbell, leave my three seats in Mr. Stump's class to Larry Cullen—they get hard after three classes.

I, Cheryl Carter, will my typing erasers to Mr. Gochenour—even though he never makes mistakes (?).

I, Jerry Cash, will my halfback position to Banks Swanson, hoping he will fill the shoes as well as I have.

I, Tommy Cash, will my seat in study hall to anyone in need of a good rest.

I, Sharon Childress, will the back seat on Bus #23 to Sandy Kennedy.

I, Joann Clark, leave my place on the absentee list to Linda Utt.

I, Ginger Clark, will my place in the fountain room outside of Miss Dameron's class to Dale Tompkins, hoping she doesn't have to wait as long as I did.

I, Wanda Clark, will my two shorthand books to any future secretaries.

I, Ray Cline, will my athletic walk to Steve Patterson. Head up, chest out, stomach in!

I, Brenda Coffey, will my place in the line at the drivers' license office to anyone taking driver training because I'm tired of trying.

I, Edna Coffey, will my quietness to Donna and Debby Pangle, but they really don't need it.

We, Freddie Coffey, Gerald Early, and Gary Stroop, leave our seats in C717X to any deserving juniors who are lucky enough to get Mr. Stump.

I, Nancy Coffey, will my long hair to Betsy Harrison. Just keep it clean.

I, Preston Coffey, will my four years of Math 8 to any eighth grader who falls in love with his teacher.

We, Sandra Coffey and Wanda Ryder, will our chairs in Mr. Swain's study hall to Sandy Martin and Carolyn Meek. We hope they have as much fun as we did.

I, Ellen Coiner, leave my well-filled FHA record-book to Miss Dutton—I'm sorry I smeared peanut butter on it.

I, Edward Coiner, leave my 1931 Model A to Chip Boyd.

I, Clifford Collins, will my long black hair to Fred Fulkerson.

I, Ronald Coleman, will to juniors my many sly jokes to pass away long hours in government class.

I, Steve Conner, will my success in basketball to the most ambitious eighth grader.

I, Pat Cook, will my well-used debate cards to Mr. Ausherman. It was a lot of fun.

I, Frankie Coyner, will the money I have saved on haircuts to Mr. Monger to be used for a new school.

I, Brenda Craig, will my quiet hours in the library to Mrs. Hull and her helpers.

Senior Class Will

- I, Keith Dalton, will my southern drawl to Janet Flint.
I, Bobby Daughtry, will my quiet bus, #43, to Micky Grove.
I, Gary Davis, will my memory to anyone who wants it, unless I return next year.
I, Gloria Davis, will my clipboards to my little sister, Cheryl. She probably will not want them by the time she gets to Wilson.
I, Becky Davis, bequeath my ability to get props for the senior play to any hard working junior.
I, Sharron Davis, bequeath my short stature to Brenda Allen.
I, Susie Demastus, bequeath my happy disposition to all sour teachers—come on, smile.
I, Allen DeVenny, leave my front teeth to someone on the football team. They will probably need them.
I, Beth Driver, will my drooping cheerleading skirt to some lucky person who can keep it up. (The zipper doesn't work.)
I, Gary Dunaway, leave my typing paper to Mrs. Cook's victim next year.
I, Lois Dull, will my nickname "Boopie" to anyone who wants to put up with it.
I, Linda East, will my writer's cramp to anyone electing Creative English.
I, Dorethia Estes, will my sense of humor to those finding it difficult to laugh.
I, Gary Estes, will my activities bus to some heavy sleeper.
I, Millie Estes, leave two free passes to the skating rink to Mr. Monger and Mr. Booker when duty allows, enjoy yourselves sometime.
I, Clyde Fisher, will my books to Mr. Monger. Honestly, I never took a thing out of them.
I, Freddie Fisher, leave my government grades to anyone who dares to use them.
I, Gail Fisher, will my front row desk in the Spanish class to Sandy Fitzgerald, if she makes it.
I, Barbara Falwell, leave my grades to my brother Donnie.
I, Claude Fitzgerald, will my English book to the unlucky person who finds my name in it next year.
I, Faye Fitzgerald, will my government book to Irene Byrd—use it!
We, Sharon Fitzgerald and Becky Howard, leave our happy times in Choral to next year's advanced group.
I, Shirley Fitzgerald, leave my black shampoo to anyone who wants to make their hair darker—to prove blondes don't have more fun!
I, Wayne Fitzgerald, leave Ray Campbell my football shoes, one size ten; and one size eight!
I, Amelia Fretwell, leave my position as president of the Spanish Club to anyone who can speak Spanish well enough.
I, Joyce Fretwell, will my laughter to Mr. Gochenour—but don't type and laugh at the same time or you will make mistakes.
I, Paulette Furr, leave my place in Mr. Ridgeway's homeroom to Patsy Miller since she liked his Chemistry so well.
I, Jerry Fox, will my literature book to Johnny Clark—don't forget to get it!
I, DeNette Garber, bequeath my crystal ball, with all its mysteries, to Chip Boyd with the hopes he may conjure up the impossible—a better senior play!
I, Steve Geiman, will my curly hair to a certain physics teacher with best wishes for a long, warm winter.
We, Melvin Glass and Wesley Grove leave our low notes in Mr. Sergeant's pockets to be pulled out when he needs them.
I, Nancy Gleason, will to the next gypsy taking physics my blab and my long dangling earrings to keep Mr. Driver off the subject.

Senior Class Will

I, Nancy Gochenour, leave my long walk from Home Ec to Miss Darden's class to Mary Lambert.

I, Tommy Graves, will my weights to Bill Young hoping he'll be using them towards football season next year.

I, Donnie Grimm, will my hunting ability to my cousin Garland, with the hope that he will get Mrs. Cook that duck I kept promising her.

I, Joy Groves, leave my place in the infirmary to any girl who has the will power to take it.

I, Doris Hanger, bequeath my grades and a prayer in chemistry to any unsuspecting underclassman.

I, Connie Harner, will my natural blonde hair to anyone who gets hers out of a peroxide bottle.

I, James Harris, will my five years of no work and all play to anyone wanting to go to summer school.

I, Calvin Harris, leave my cigar stubs to some poor person who wants to look distinguished.

I, James Harrison, will the ghosts of my wives to anyone who can catch them—I really didn't want them, anyway!

I, Rita Harold, will arguments in English class to some timid junior.

I, Reba Hemp, will my hidden knowledge to anyone who can find it.

I, Wanda Henderson, leave all my memories of Wilson to the underclassmen hoping they also will enjoy it as I did.

I, Bruce Hewitt, leave my football jersey number 42, to Melvin Sweeney, who might be able to get some use out of it.

I, Bruce Hogshead, will my ability to spot UFO's to the Wilson Science Club.

I, James Holbert, will the next rat I kill to Mrs. Harris for her biology class.

I, Amos Hostetter, do hereby will my physics ability to any junior who takes physics.

I, Carolyn Hostetter, leave my professional techniques in cosmology to Sue Mawyer.

I, Ruth Hoover, leave my seat on bus 8 to some quiet shy girl who doesn't flirt with the boys.

I, Jane Hoyle, leave my impatience with Mr. Stump to anyone unlucky enough to get him.

I, Sandra Howell, leave my mended typewriter covers to Mrs. Wiggins—Be careful with them, please.

I, Jean Huffman, will my courage to disagree with Mr. Stump to any poor soul in his government class next year.

I, Cheryl Humphries, will my teasing comb and can of hair spray to Patty Hevener.

I, Ronnie Hyden, after blowing up my '58 Ford, leave it to anyone who wants to start a junk yard.

I, Brenda James, leave my prize-winning basketball team to whoever can control it.

I, Ruby Johnson, will my sister Ruth my best grades for next year.

I, Wanda Johnson, will my artistic ability and two well used brushes to Wayne Shelton.

I, Susan Judd, leave Mr. Newton a portable fire extinguisher to fight trash can fires.

I, Peggy Keiser, will the unused portion of my English exam to any forgetful junior.

I, Marvin Kelly, will my height of six-foot-three to Joe Wingard to add to his own height of six-foot-three.

I, Joseph Kennedy, will my place in the lunch line to anyone who wants to eat twice.

Senior Class Will

I, Sylvia Kessell, will my copy of Canterbury Tales to Mrs. Mabry with deepest sympathy.

I, John Kislek, leave nothing to anyone, because I may be back sometime in the future.

I, Tommy Landrum, will my step-ladder to Ada Hevener in the event she might have an eye to eye talk with a teacher.

I, Cecil Lawson, will my wavy hair to Martin Breuer. I find he will have use for it.

I, Charles Layman, will my smoking permit to Mr. Booker.

I, John Layman, will my spirit to Nellie Hull and Sharon Cooke.

I, Diana Layne, will my last air mail envelope to another Juliet.

I, Garry Lewis, will to any junior boy lucky enough to be selected, my experience at Boys' State.

I, Calvin Lotts, have lots to will, but being selfish, am going to keep everything myself.

I, Jackie Lowe, will my quietness to my cousin Linda Lewis.

I, Phyllis Lowe, will my seat in government class, the one with "Billy" written on it, to some fortunate government student.

I, Robert Morris, bequeath Bus #16 and one large box of cotton to any future bus driver.

I, Betty Martin, will my Mustang to Mr. Monger for the purpose of transporting suspended students home.

I, Joey Mawyer, will my tight pants to Roy Meek—they may fit him.

I, Phyllis Mawyer, will my part as Lady MacBeth to the Nun in Canterbury Tales.

I, Eddie Mays, will to Stew Thomas all my passes from the office for being late to homeroom. They're fun anyway, aren't they, Stew?

I, Johnny McCracken, leave my grey hair to Robbie Driver, as she will never become grey worrying about me.

I, Margaret McCutchen, leave my pigtails to Mr. Driver. May he wear them in the most advantageous place.

I, Norman McLaughlin, will, with great happiness, to Miss Holland those horrible conjugations. Good riddance!

I, Joseph McLaughlin, will my great geometry test grades to some prominent geometry student.

I, Dora Meek, will my chemistry lab manual to any ambitious junior. It's practically new.

I, Freda Melton, leave my shorthand notes to whoever can translate them because I can't.

I, Jackie Miller, will my blonde hair to any bald-headed junior in need of it.

I, Martha Miller, will my Tuesday and Thursday afternoons in the physics lab to Jack Copper, hoping they will help him more than they did me.

I, Linda Mitchell, will my extra pounds to Miss Darden, because I haven't any further use for them.

I, Sammy Mize, will the poem, "Hark, Hark the Lark," to anyone lucky enough to have Mrs. Mabry next year.

I, Judy Mizer, will my quiet ways to some lucky junior. They may prove to be rewarding.

I, Gary Monger, will my crutches to anyone wishing to jump off the diving board into a drained swimming pool. Oh well, I didn't need that ankle anyway.

I, Donnie Monroe, will my locker room on "A" corridor to C. T. Mawyer.

I, John Mooneyham, leave my sense of humor to any deserving junior to be used when he gets in a blue mood.

I, Melvin Morris, will my old guitar pick to Gary Bodkin.

I, Robert Myers, leave my position of greatness in the halls of Wilson to Howard Estes.

Senior Class Will

I, Teresa Niday, leave my roving heart to the one who thinks he has it now.

I, Ray Nuckols, will my Riverheads' experiences to anyone crazy enough to try them.

I, Mack Null, have nothing to will, but I am willing to sell at a reasonable price, one set of slightly used short story cards, one Spanish term paper, and one passing grade in Chemistry.

I, Carolyn Painter, bequeath my debate cards to Ruffie Lowman.

I, Mickey Pawlik, bequeath my football jersey, #44, to Glenn Cash and my school parking lot place to another GTO owner.

I, David Patterson, will my baseball and bat to Russell Bosserman and Gary Mawyer.

We, John Pirkey, Allen Simmons, and Eddie Wade, will our parking places at the Dairy Rite to the first ones that get there.

I, Phyllis Pleasants, will my love of WMHS and the happiness I have had here to every student.

I, Garry Rankin, will all my beautiful art work to whoever can figure it out.

I, Jacqy Ramsey, will my electronics book to Tommy Cash. May he get a shock out of it.

I, Lawrence Ramsey, leave my place at the Technical School to anyone who wants to walk over there everyday.

I, Allen Reese, leave my charm and coquettish ways to next year's "greatest."

I, Troy Rexrode, leave my dunce's cap to Mrs. Mabry—maybe somebody will need it next year.

I, Ethel Rickman, will my desk in government to the unlucky person who has to use it next year.

I, Allen Riddle, will my desk in Mr. Hiner's algebra class to Danny Mason.

I, Kenneth Rumburg, bequeath my enduring ability to cogitate, my predilection to ultimate and irrevocable conclusions, and my antipathy to sloth to Lawrence Pekri in the dubious hope that these qualities will illumine the dim caverns of his mind.

I, Faye Rodgers, will my first seat on Bus #38 to anyone who likes what's in the driver's seat.

I, Vada Sensabaugh, will my horse sketches to anyone who doesn't know how to draw a horse.

I, Carolyn Shelton, leave my position as an usher for the senior play to the most deserving junior girl.

I, Marianne Shields, will my physics book to anyone who will have it.

I, Linda Shifflett, will my tennis balls to Betsy Cassell; she said she needed them.

I, David Showalter, leave my calm outlook on life. You need it around this place.

I, Milton Showalter, leave my brain to Mr. Ridgeway. I hope science can make better use of it than I did.

I, Fred Simpkins, will one overworked brain to any underclassman who never studies.

I, Paul Simpson, will my Chevy to any junior who knows about it. Yeah, man!

Senior Class Will

I, Harry Smith, will my back seat in English to someone who likes to sit in the back and stay on the bottom in the grade book.

I, Linda Simmons, will my broken dishes from the Senior play to Mrs. Cook.

I, Sharon Snider, will to any student electing Creative English my genius for bloody murders.

I, Pat Sorrells, leave my smile to Mr. Booker, to use on Monday morning after Wilson has lost a ball game.

I, Tommy Southard, will my spyglasses to Bobby Furr.

I, Mary Spieker, will my blushes to some innocent underclassman.

I, Linda Strickler, leave my majorette skirt and baton to Sharon Chauncey—if she wears the skirt she will need the baton to fight off the boys.

I, Patricia Strong, will my keys to any junior willing to get lost in the music library.

I, Raymond Templeton, will my girlfriends, except one, to the different boys who get them—allowed only one wife in the United States.

I, Shirley Thompson, bequeath my outstanding knowledge of chemistry to anyone who is dumb enough to take it.

I, Steve Tillman, will my grease covered overalls to anyone taking auto mechanics.

I, Judy Tinsley, will my majorette baton to Pat Chauncy.

I, Bill Toman, will my long hours of "worrying about the women" to John Roller and Steve Nelson.

I, Linda Traxler, will my height to Steve Fitzgerald, who may need it in basketball next year.

I, Annette Varner, bequeath my ability to violate the traffic laws to any driver who wants to do it.

I, James Wade, will my notebook (it has some good phone numbers in it) to "Skeeter" Barnes.

I, Pat Walters, have nothing to will, but I will sell some old book covers.

I, Peggy Weaver, bequeath my high voltage personality to VEPCO.

I, Peggy Wells, will my table in cosmology to Dottie Benson.

I, Dottie White, will my eye lash curler to Ralph Thomas—"you have such pretty eyes."

I, Betty Whitesell, bequeath my rollers in cosmology to Teresa Schade.

I, Harold Wheeler, will my tiger tail to someone who wants a tiger in his tank.

I, R. O. Williams, will my wavy curls to Ronnie Dameron.

I, Hal Wilson, will my witty remarks to Randy Hensley and my football clip board to Bob "Cosmo" Holton.

I, Maynard Wood, will my happy-go-lucky ways to whoever thinks he can get away with them.

I, Ann York, will my starving days in the F. T. A. bookroom to my sister, Dahle.

I, Jim Zimmerman, bestow upon Steve Fitzgerald my ability always to drop the first pass.

We, the Creative English classes, will our wills to those willing to accept our wills.

The 1965 HORNET'S NEST staff would like to publicly acknowledge the help given toward the publication of this book to

The Photographers

Mr. E. M. Lemley, Mr. Massie and Mr. Dennis Sutton

Those of the Art Department who have made this book so attractive

Mr. Kenneth Newton, Betsy Cassell, Susan Judd and Loretta Bosserman

Those of the staff who worked so long and hard

Edna Coffey, Connie Harner, Bobby Daughtry, Brenda Craig, Cynthia Boliek and Beth Driver

The School Administration and The Faculty who have been kind and patient with us in our struggle to "put the book to bed"

The Advertisers, Our Friends

The Personnel of The McClure Printing Company whose patience seems inexhaustible

And to all others who have given so much time and effort toward the making of this 1965 HORNET'S NEST.

P.S.
Be good this summer, and I hope to see you (like all
the other girls)

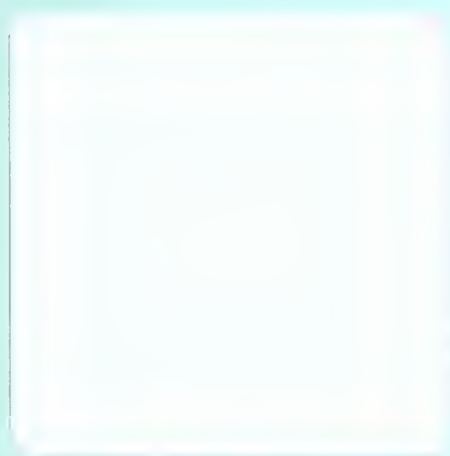

Allen,
She may but I wish to you in 1962
all you do I sure hate to see you go, I must have anyone to pick on next yr. Ken all the time we have and had.
Allen, she been wonderful knowing you & I hope to see you more! I better
not put any thing else,
because you might think I'm crazy!
Love You
Sandy

Allen,
I really don't know where to begin except by saying I hate to see this year end. I mean I hate to leave my wonderful class mates.

Allen, I know you think of me as being dumb, crazy, stupid and all that seriousness I can truly say but I know you a lot & I put up with but you
I know I've been a lot & I really didn't know how to shock I'll never forget the date not head. I was so det. you probably noticed that HA! I always waited for whether it sounds crazy or not I love you in a special way. Please come see me this summer. You hear! I really mean it. I don't go to far and be careful to. I wouldn't want anything to happen to you.
Allen, you're probably getting tired of reading but again, I'm wishing you the very best only because you deserve it.

See you
I love ya
thick "Monster" Hand
"Fiddle"
